

Part VI

8.0 Design Ideas

Trails have become so much more than just laying a path down. These linear corridors have become an integral part of our urban environment. There are so many opportunities to make the trails an interesting and memorable experience. This section introduces just a few ideas to stimulate the imagination and show how attention to details can evoke a sense of identity, character and uniqueness to an area.

Signposts and Signage

Adding new signs to an existing streetscape is a challenge that needs to be carefully thought out. Any sign programs should be comprehensive and include signage for trails, recreations and community facilities, historic sites, parks and bicycle routes.

Furnishing

The Captain's Chair, above, allows the users to view over the rail height prescribed by the Building Code.

Bridges

Ground plane

Rail and Trail Corridors

Illustration above by:
Sharp & Diamond
Landscape, Architecture and Planning

